Hartness Focuses on Continued Growth and Emerging Sustainability Business

Hartness International recently announced the re-structuring of its Global commercial group. According to a company spokesman, the changes were made in an effort to continue its rapid growth around shrink film, integration and robotic solutions, as well as to focus on the Global commercialization of several new product lines within its Hartness Sustainability Solutions business unit.

Jim Soenke, formerly Director of Sales for Midwestern US, has been named Director of Sales for North America. Doug Stambaugh, a 20-year Company veteran and former Managing Director of Hartness' industry leading Systems Group, has been named Vice President of Sales for North America and Mexico. Scott Smith, formerly Vice President of Sales, has been named Vice President of International Sales and has been given Global responsibility for Hartness' Emerging Business unit.
